

THE SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT COLLOQUIUM PRESENTS:

The Future of Historical Social Science

Wednesday, April 27th from 12:30-1:50pm Central
Social Sciences Tea Room (SSRB 201)
Zoom: <https://bit.ly/3t3YfoV>

In the 1990s, the so-called “historic turn in the social sciences” consolidated historical inquiry across the disciplines, mobilizing a new Historical Social Science (HSS) encompassing fields such as history, historical sociology, political science, economic history and historical anthropology. Decades later, this panel will feature speakers who will address the state of HSS today. What are the promises and potentialities of HSS today and how can we better realize them? What are the challenges or obstacles and how might we avoid them? What is the future of HSS?

Panelists:

- Elisabeth Clemens, William Rainey Harper Distinguished Service Professor of Sociology and the College
- Adom Getachew, Neubauer Family Assistant Professor of Political Science and the College
- Steven Pincus, Thomas E. Donnelly Professor of British History and the College
- Moderator: Julian Go, Professor of Sociology at UChicago

In-person attendance is available on a first-come, first-served basis. Please email Meredith Clason at mclason@uchicago.edu with questions, or if you would like to attend the event in person in SSRB 201.
